She walk like she got headphones, rockin' Aretha Lady of light, the type that you'd like to speak ta' Hard to reach, sorta speaks like a drink of water Far from a leaf though it's hard being the king's daughter Not really into order but her expectations call for a man to be strong Plus patience, see, you can admire the flower But understand, you dealing with a woman and a higher power And my father in Heaven must've gave her the Earth 'Cause the money don't impress her, yo she know what she's worth And she knows rebirth, and she can feel it Went through too much hurt to conceal it It's not what she say, it's the way she reveals it And how the world wanna steal it That spirit in which her body's a home to Sorry world, she's outgrown you (Chorus) Outta the gates to the wild blue Sky's too great, she gotta escape, fly through With a smile to kinda remind you You gotta look ahead and not behind you She said staring at the sun won't blind you It's just a lie used by the world to confine you But I know a place they won't find you And if you believe, you can fly like I do Absolutely beautiful, the type that make you feel unsuitable She's uncommon, ain't nothing about her usual If you've had known her before the transition You'd be amazed by the change man, listen She used to go from this one to that one To feel complete, she looked for men to make it happen Until she started asking, if all things in this world should pass then Show me something that's everlasting That's when she met true love, not the word but the action Taking her to way back when, she was Eve in the garden of Eden (hehe) Before the apple was eaten, before she used to be the Queen of clubs Now it seems she's a wild card, born again, child of God With a style a little odd for any normal man to marry But she fits in just fine with the revolutionaries (chorus) Outta the gates to the wild blue Sky's too great, she gotta escape, fly through With a smile to kinda remind you You gotta look ahead and not behind you She said staring at the sun won't blind you It's just a lie used by the world to confine you But I know a place they won't find you And if you believe, you can fly like I do
