We used to head down into town
Where I would lend myself to you
And when the conversation dries
I end up kissing-kissing-kissing you

But now that archeology, excavation and stratigraphy
So I'll dig up your stuff and preserve it
We'll be old in a bit
So let's make the most of it

No no darling,
Don't you forget that I'm still the same boy
But now I drink coffee
Not just ribena and I like it, I like it

We had our rooms all painted black
With sleeves of albums stuck up back-to-back
And now that archaeology, all assemblages of you and me
So I'll dig up all your stuff and preserve it
We'll be old in a bit
But we'll all get used to it

No no darling
Don't you forget that I'm still the same boy
But now I drink coffee
Not just ribena and I like it, I like it

We'll be old, in a bit
But not yet, so let's make the most of it
We'll come back, from the death
To relive it, to relive it

No no darling
Don't you forget that I'm still the same boy
But now I drink coffee
Not just ribena and I like it, I like it

No no darling
Don't you forget that I'm still the same boy
But now I drink coffee

Not just ribena and I like it, I like it
