

Philip Bell

"In The Middle"

Visit "In The Middle" on MotoLyrics.com

Yeah I've been away from you since you forced me to my place in the middle
I don't know which side to take--it feels like love and hate are sewn together
And it was hate I was running away with You kissed my lips as if that could eclipse your distance
Cause somewhere in your eyes I saw myself collide with your resistance--no
and it was hate I was running away with
and it was hate I was running away with and It was hate that I was running away with I watched you fly away like birds do even though we both knew we never had to fall

Don't wanna fight between these thoughts forever
But the battleground is hard to surrender Yeah, I've been away from you since you forced me to my place in the middle
I don't know which side to take it feels like love and hate are sewn together --no
And it was hate I was running away with
And it was hate I was running away with
And it was hate I was running away with
And it was hate I was running away with
And it's love that brings me back

Visit Philip Bell page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.