Verse

You thought that you could leave me on the ground
Never thought twice to turn around
Look the other way and you'll be sorry
Looking for a reason way out
But you're committing treason right now
Baby, turn your head and I'll be gone for good

Chorus

When I'm on an eastbound train going
Far, far away
Time, it won't be wasted again
And I run from everything and a
White horse has lost its meaning
When I run away, when I run away
On an eastbound train

Verse

Maybe I can focus my eyes
On a pretty cloudless sunrise
But maybe if it's cold, ill just stay right here
I've snuck out a bathroom window
And didn't make a sound long ago
In the middle of the night with a withdrawal mind

Chorus

When I'm on an eastbound train going
Far, far away
Time, it won't be wasted again
And I run from everything and a
White horse has lost its meaning
When I run away, when I run away
On an eastbound train
