I believe our souls will live forever.
Someday my body go'n' give up on me.
My soul gonna move to the other side of town.
Maybe gonna go to another country.
I believe it's gonna pass to a whole other world.
But it's gonna cross a line that we just can't see.
We may not know, but ya gotta believe.
It's gonna cross a line that we just can't see.
My name's not Moe, but I gotta believe!

If you think you know where your soul's gonna be movin',
I'd like to take a look and watch ya prove it.
But if you can show me, then it's your time to go.
So maybe you don't wanna show me, and maybe I don't wanna know.

[Chorus]

Someday my body go'n' give up on me and it's all right. Someday my mind will be completely free, and it's all right. Sometimes my soul jumps right out of me in the middle of the night. But right now ain't no better place, there ain't no better place. I said, right now there ain't no better place my soul would rather be.

Yo' soul can leave without usin' the door or window.
No use in packin' up, just get ready for another beautiful tomorrow. When this world's done with me you can spread my ashes around. Your body ain't no good to you if there ain't a soul around.

[Chorus] [bridge]

One day we'll take that train, All aboard! It's headin' to the higher plain. There's a world where there ain't no pain. When we go home, back to the place from where we came.
