A fish in the pan is greater than all the fishes in the sea.
Once you catch hold of a keeper, you set all the others
free.

The one that got away, it's been told so many times.
Before it break your pole, you better cut the line.

Chorus

And roll roll roll, many miles away
Roll roll roll, until you find yourself a place to stay.
You got to roll roll roll. Many miles to go.
Roll until you call it home.

Do you want to get deeper Then dig a hole.
Do you want to find love? Then lose control.
You gotta give it all away; but will it come back to you
one fine day?
You'll never know until you roll.

There'll be some pleasure and some pain, that's the cost we got to pay.
The feelings in our hearts, and the thoughts in our brains.
Some will go away, and some will remain.
There's time to learn, but there ain't no way to explain.

Chorus

A fish in the pan is greater than all the fishes in the sea.
Once you catch hold of a keeper, you set all the others
free.
The one that got away, it's been told so many times.
Before it break your pole, you better cut the line.

Chorus

Have you seen too many sweet things, or is it just a bunch of nothing?
What joy would it bring, to close your eyes and hear the angels sing?
You give it all way, but will it come back to you one fine day?
You just won't know until you roll.

Chorus
