Yesterday I hit rock bottom. Broke down on the floor.
Sometimes you take your lessons, Â'times you need a little more. Spittin' and sufferin', and swearin' at the sky,
Tryin' to figure out all the answers, but I can't figure out just why.

[Chorus] Sometimes you gotta go, way down low.
Sometimes it's the only way to go. Way down low, way down to the bottom of your soul.

So you say you've hit rock bottom.
We've all been there before. One man's ceiling is another man's floor. And it takes a little time, but you'll get a lot of healing. One man's floor is another man's ceiling.

[Chorus]

When you get there, you'll know.
There is only one yesterday, there's only one tomorrow.
It's best to take it day by day when you're sifting through your sorrow. Sometimes it takes a dirty floor to help you find that open door. Our fragile minds cannot endure when our hearts are so impure. Are you tired of being so unsure? Go find what you're looking for - way down low.

[Chorus]
