Each moment with you, your smile danced in me.
The sound of your voice, a song from the sea.
We never thought it could be our last first time.

The place in your arms, the stillness of time.
The beat of your heart, my reason and rhyme.
We never dreamt it would be our last first time.

The love in your eyes, the light of God's grace.
The warmth of your hand, the sun on my face.
We never thought it could be our last first time.

If you were the words from a poet's hand, I'd read you all through the day. There would be no beginning, there would be no end, forever with me you would stay.

The place you call home, the star's canopy.
Where ever you are, I will keep you with me.
You're all that I see, how can it be, our last first time,
our last first time.
