Step into the darkness, leave the edge of light, winds of fear surround you, and navigate the night.

Stepping stones before you, vastness in between, not sure where they'll lead you, things aren't what they seem.

Time to move one forward, risk losing sight of land, in your place of knowing, trust there lies a plan.

Darkness may be haunting, answers do unfold, all is as it should be, that's what I've been told.

It's your path your journey, mystics call it fate, stepping stones before you, so live, your life awaits.
