Sweet little sister in a hard situation, trying to find her way in the world
You got a pretty nice smile but a bad reputation
You don't have to hide it, but you really should
There were lines on the table and bodies on the floor
And she was back for more
She was certified wild when she was born

Fooled by the lie by a silver-tongued woman, but I wouldn't walk away if I could You got a dirty little secret but a good vibration
You shouldn't have to fight it if it makes you feel good
They would hang from the ceiling and climb on the wall
And she was back for more
