There's nothing we can do or say baby
It's a natural thing sometimes
Darling what do you want me to do?
When it finally fades away love
You're gonna have to learn to choose
If you can hear me baby dry your eyes

You can take no time to worry
Your world is still your world even when it is hurting

Two different kinds of love
Two different kinds of people
That lost their way
There's times when you have to give up
When you've lost the will to hold on
And people change
Trust we'll be okay

"So why don't we sit down and you tell me
How it was, how it is, and how it's never gonna be
And let it sink into my beat-less heart
And maybe on any other given day
I could find the time to change my mind and let myself be
But boy tonight it's just a little harder for me"

That's all she said when I told her that she'd be alright
After all, she's not the only one who's surprised

Two different kinds of love
Two different kinds of people
Who need no games
Give me some kind of direction
I'm left in the dark for good as I miss your face
In my world tonight

Two different kinds of love
Two different kinds of people
Wishing that they could stay
Maybe I didn't try hard enough
Take all you need and fly away
Fly away from me
