Pull this material skeleton off my skin
Expose my heart make me raw
Open me up, let the therapy begin
Help me heal, make me real

I donâ€™t want to go home the same man
Iâ€™ve become foreign to who I am
I donâ€™t want to leave here the same man

Show me how to smile a real smile
Make me new, make me see through
Show me what uncomfortable feels like
Break me down, show me how

Iâ€™m leaving the old part of me
Iâ€™m ridding my skin of its treacheries
Of wanting and flaunting and needing and greed and
Iâ€™m throwing away my pride
And coming alive again

I donâ€™t wanna leave here
The same as Iâ€™ve been
