Pierced heart, awaken in the dark
Harsh light bleeds from flames
Hear the drums when the morning comes
You want your life like you had it?
Well it's too late for that

So scream loud, fill your lungs with air
Down here, they can't hear
They don't care and you're worse for wear
You want your life like you lived it?
You didn't live it right, no

Night falls, learn and know it well
Your sharp eyes are crafted by a tenure in Hell
They cast a deadly spell
Your figure shaped in my image now returns to life

So tread soft, fear the watchful eye
Sink deep, drink and relish the cry
They all deserve to die
Grant them a place at my table, and the night begins

Revenant, you'll feel my fire
As you beat your scarred wings higher
The sky is caving in as the world burns
A change of skin begins
As the wheel turns your past, how it can't save you now
