You were just a string of broken promises,
Tangled me up in your net of smooth talkin,
And I didn't stand a chance.
This whole time you were just an illusion,
Of happy ever after and I didn't see through it,
Not until my tears broke the spell,
You were just a reflection in a wishin well
And when I say I hate you it means...

I hate that you walked into my life,
I hate that you'll never make things right,
I hate that your smile is imprinted on my mind.
I hate that you tore me apart,
Took what was left of my heart,
And left me behind,
I hate that I still love you and I reckon,
That I hate you cause I miss you every second.

This whole time you were just a hunter,
Wish that I had been a little smarter,
I stepped into your trap.
This whole time you were just the devil in disguise,
Spinnin up a web of intricate lies,
Like a clever spider,
I was a fly caught somewhere between that smile and those eyes.
And when I say I hate you it means...

I hate that you walked into my life,
I hate that you'll never make things right,
I hate that your green eyes are imprinted on my mind.
I hate that you tore me apart,
Took what was left of my heart,
And left me behind,
I hate that I still love you and I reckon,
That I hate you cause I miss you every second.

I don't know how I was so god damn naive,
But I can't let you get the best of me...

I hate that you walked into my life,
I hate that you'll never make things right,

I hate that your smile is imprinted on my mind.
I hate that you tore me apart,
Took what was left of my heart,
And left me behind,
I hate that I still love you and I reckon,
That I hate you cause I miss you every second,
Oh but one day I reckon,
That I'll learn not to miss you... every second
