five thousand letters I Keep in my bedroom five thousand people who open their hearts once they were strangers today we are family mountains won't keep us apart there is a girl who has drawn me a sunrise that's how she wants every morning to be a boy lost his tooth and he wants me to have it how did this happen to me i want to know all their faces and i want to be there when they need a friend five thousand letters they wrote me and someday i'll read them again five thousand stories i keep in my bedroom five thousand secrets i keep in my mind i have been given a piece of their lifetime friendship is easy to find
