"Always A Light"

You may have situations in life where you say "what do I do?"

And though you think you'll drown in tears, in the end, you'll see it through

Because everything happens for a reason
But in the moment you don't see it

But, there's always a light at the end of the tunnel
Everything will be alright
Although you may not get the situation
But there is a reason why

This is all a test that always
Makes you stronger every time
So think what's right, and you will get by

It may seem that the end is close, but it's not really true,
Behind the darkness, there is the light that will make you see things new

Because everything happens for a purpose
But in the moment you don't notice

But, there's always a light at the end of the tunnel
Everything will be alright
Although you may not get the situation
But there is a reason why

This is all a test that always
Makes you stronger every time
So think what's right, and you will get by

Never say no to what you've suffered in the past
That was all a way to make you understand

Oh, there's always a light at the end of the tunnel
Everything will be alright
Although you may not get the situation
But there is a reason why

This is all a test that always
Makes you stronger every time
So think what's right, and you will get by

And you will get by
You will get by
You will get by
