It's been many years since I saw your face
When you left the door and walked away
All these thoughts of you seemed to cross my mind
And they still come back from time to time

But I want you to know that you mean so much to me

You're all that I need, and all that I want
You are the one who can mend my broken heart
You brighten my day whenever I'm down
I can't survive when you're not around

And though I've made all those mistakes
I just want you to see you're all that I need

It's hard to believe that I broke your heart
And I'm the reason why we've been apart
It's my fault, I must have been so blind
But now I understand the reason why

I made you feel this way, and now I have to say

You're all that I need, and all that I want
You are the one who can mend my broken heart
You brighten my day whenever I'm down
I can't survive when you're not around

And though I've made all those mistakes
I just want you to see you're all that I need

I never knew what I had until it went away
But if you give me the chance, I will give you better days

You're all that I need, and all that I want
You are the one who can mend my broken heart
You brighten my day whenever I'm down
I can't survive when you're not around

And though I've made all those mistakes
I just want you to see

You're all that I need
You are the one who can mend my broken heart
You're all that I want
I can't survive when you're not around

And though I've made all those mistakes
I just want you to see you're all that I need

You're all that I need
