Tear myself to be with you Turn your back and shake your thoughts oh What could I do?
(please don't let me fall please do not lose control) my mind told me to go my heart has preyed I not and in the end everything falls like you (please don't let me fall please do not lose control)

[And I don't know where or when where all this hell had so began maybe when you started to pretend or maybe when I made the last attempt I feel the pain
I feel you mine
I look around but you're in my mind close your eyes take your breath and keep it up until there's nothing left]

My soul holds you close in my mind through this thick smoke you've no control of where you go I know all of this will soon be gone

Buried down in your thoughts I wonder if I come to your mind maybe as you (please don't let me fall please do not lose control)
I guess it's been too long repair all the things that I did wrong and in the end everything falls
control)

I think it's time to give you a piece of my mind and try to show how well I'm blind And in design of the world I call mine I view all this whine now across the line
