I was raised by a raging sun
Made in the image of a holy one
Now that you know how I got my start
You can see how far from the tree it seems my apple was dropped

Trapped in an image that I thought I destroyed
Beneath the raging sun I found my choices Don't disregard what must be regarded Change is the face for the brokenhearted

My momma's been praying for my direction While I've been teeming, needing some redemption

Before I knew I knew you
I was traveling through with you
Wrapped up in arms like a tired dog
Asking myself what I was doing wrong

A stranger in the strangest of lands Search out your answer while you've got the chance
There is a fever that is burning bright
Don't waste the smallest little shade of white

Don't be afraid there is nothing to fear
I see it in your eyes, you are safe my dear
Darkness tries its best to surround you
Sticks and stones do their best to destroy you

Before I knew I knew you
I was trying to delude you
Wrapped up in arms like a tired dog
Asking myself what I was doing wrong

I was raised by the raging sun
Made in the image of a holy one
