Better stop my nosebleed,
I'm lying in the gutter,
It's not in control my body and soul into two parts,
Better get up better head home now,
The damage is done and all the fun is spoiled.

Don't ask me how or when I got here,
It's quite a long story to tell,

Just wipe me off if I go to close,
I may be drunk but I swear I'll do no harm.

My head is heavy and my heart has been up my throat,
For way too long in right and in wrong,
Most people deal with the sun and how we circle around the warmth.
My world only goes from my head to my toes.

Don't tell me stories of the sunken ships,
It's too much for me to take in,
But will you tell me how you deal with a broken heart?

I don't know you say and go,
Don't look up into the sun.
It burns our eyes out.
