And then there was the light
That shined upon us like it was there all along
But we never had the chance to hold it's warmth
Not even get the glimpse of it's existence
Still it felt so familiar and full of trust
So we accepted it like it was meant to be all along

Holding on to these feelings of hope

Feelings of things once lost
It can't be described in words
And yet we understand every single part
The solace in this feeling draws us closer
Holds us together forever
No remorse
No feelings of regret

It's just the feeling we have inside forever to be ours again
The solace in this feeling never lasts
Drives apart from each other
The solace never lasts but it still feels like home
