Well I just thought about you
And all the things you do How you're a friend of mine and got stabbed in the back Taking what belongs to you Now you're less talkative when I'm around And something is not right
The things you said before
When you go out the door Don't forget who your friends are so now you're either with me or against me
and now you're really showing yourself well how am I supposed to think good of you when all you do is raise all this hell?
Right about now you can do your best (like all the rest)
Right now you're rolling your eyes
And you're talking some shit To all the friends that you're with Well I have no more to say Except stay away
And just leave me along because you don't understand One fucking thing about friends
so now you're either with me or against me
and now you're really showing yourself
well how am I supposed to think good of you when al you do is raise all this hell?
So what now?
