Ships are sailing by my car
What a majesty
I felt comforted inside
Would you believe that I was wrong
Would you come out
And show your face, and show your eyes
Talk to me now and tell me
Why you did it, why you planned this cruel trap Well in fact I don't care about your psychological reasons
I only came here to warn you
You little bastard

anger
There comes a time when you will have to believe in my strength
There comes a time for revenge
And sweet eye for an eye with you
Burst into laughter
Now burst into laughter
The one who laughs last is the one who wins

How is it to fall down
And sink into the mud
Break down in pieces
Like I did before
And was it worth it at all
To make me scream and howl
To play my master?

anger
strength
There comes a time for revenge
And sweet eye for an eye with you
Burst into laughter
Burst your laughter
The one who laughs last is the one who wins

And you should know it

You should suffer
You should feel the same
You should scream
You should cry
You should feel the pain
