He's a boy from somewhere in mexico

She's a sweet girl from somewhere in l.a.

They met in a special way

They don't know 'bout barricades

They just know how to be good friends.

A world between them

Separated by discrimination

They just want to live

Without hate and seperations

They only need understanding and hope

While they speak along their dreams

So they want more than...

Chorus

A love across the border

They want love

They want a peaceful place

To believe once growth;

A love across the border

Throughout this world

A world with pretty thing

Once were made by god.

They are everywhere

They are common kids

Among their stories they have in common

A heartfelt dream

To live in a better place

In a better land

And lead the exodus that today begin

Within...

Bridge:

Today there's so much hate

Today there's no good morning

Someday i hope this will be

The land for every human being

Without hate and seperations.
