He sits on his rooftop
She opens his wine
He's drinking alone
And it's not the first time
He stares at her back and his eyes traces that sweet line

He feels the chill
As it touches his heart
Is it the guilt
Too much time apart
He calls her name but stops so it's lost in the dark

He sits and dwells
On their time apart
Building an empire
Breaking her heart
Searching for words
And starting anew
If he'd just listen, then he'd hear the truth

All you ever wanted
All you ever needed
Is here in my arms

All you ever wanted
All you ever needed was here

All you ever wanted
All you ever needed
Was here in my arms

All you ever wanted
All you ever needed
was here... Right here

(instrumental interlude)

He climbed the staircase
Where nothing is new
The darkness can chill him

The dreams that came true
He got it all But they came at a price
Who in here wouldn't live their life twice?

'cause living is nice....

He sits and dwells on their time apart
Building an empire Breaking her heart
Searching for words And starting anew
If he'd just listen, then he'd hear the truth

All you ever wanted
All you ever needed
All you ever wanted all you ever needed
Was here in my arms
All you ever wanted
All you ever needed
Was here
He closes his eyes and the song ends
But who shares love when the replay begins
