Even though a faded glow wont burn through all your bars.

He put out to put up

Even while your lightning smile was shaking in the smoke

Your head was full of hope

Because I am a member of the butterfly culture

Where we work and we take, we play and we pray to God

That the girl in that dress, will undress

And distress you with the way she moves

Chorus:

I am a member of the butterfly culture

Where we work and we take, we play and we pray to god

That the girl in that dress will undress

And distress you with the way she move.

Even now when you know how to measure up the risk

You're still more tired of this

Even when the pills you take turn you to a ghost

You still spin around the most

Because I am a member of the butterfly culture

Where we we work and we take, we play and we pray to god

That the girl in that dress will undress

And distress you with the way she moves

Chorus:

I am a member of the butterfly culture

Where we work and we take, we play and we pray to god

That the girl in that dress will undress

And distress you with the way she move.
