You always had a faith
A faith of a world so big
Where the desires can grow so strong
Where different thoughts lives
Look around because here's your world.
The battle will begin with you

You don't have to search
You can begin fighting your own shadow
You only need to know
That the questions asked can give you the answers
You need --- you need

The thought flashes by and
Life can turn out as it will be
If you don't dare look at yourself
What will happen to all our time?
Look around because here's your world
The battle will begin with you

You don't have to search
You can begin fighting your own shadow
You only need to know
That the questions asked can give you the answers

The time is everything for this moment
And could only, what where we doing here?

You don't have to search
You can begin fighting your own shadow
You only need to know
That the questions asked can give you the answers
You don't have to search
You can begin fighting your own shadow
You only need to know
That the questions asked can give you the answers
You need --- you need
