

Boiling Point "Facing The Truth"

Can't you see that I'm falling,
I'm losing control of myself
You say it's appalling

You never thought to help me,
Find my way
I'm dying behind the person I never became

You'd rather turn your back on me
Than face what you know to be true;
Being ignorant's easy

You never thought to help me,
Find my way
I'm dying behind the person I never
It kills me to think that now,
You need me, I just need to get away

You try to stop feeling guilty
By lying to yourself again
Justifying your envy, you know it's wrong

And how does it feel to know you've abandoned me
Lost yourself in the lies
You should be facing the truth

You never thought to help me,
Find my way
I'm dying behind the person I never
It kills me to think that now,
You need me, I just need to get away
