

Bonn Smith

"Run"

Visit "Run" on MotoLyrics.com

My mouth can't open, my eyes don't cry
I watch you in silence from my sparkle in the sky
As the days float by us, I watch you grow
Never stand beside you again but I hope that you know
That you're all that I lived for, till death did us part How is it that the end has come when it should have been the start?
The start of our real life, what we long to share
Life ends, love lasts forever
Isn't that unfair?
Isn't that unfair?
I can only hear your prayers
I can only hear your prayers

My mouth can't open, my eyes don't cry
I watch you in silence from my sparkle in the sky
And I just want to scream out, so you hear my words
You thought it was the wind but it was me that you heard
The night that I left you, the night I dread
How can one live a life when the other is dead?
If I could just hold you once more, I'd never let go
With you in my arms life can never go to slow...
Too slow...

So here are my last words, on which I part
Don't listen with your ears, but hear me with your heart
I want you to live, I want you to love
Hope that you give, and have some fun
And when everything's said, everything's done
My beautiful baby girl
I want you to run...

Run from the light, run with your life
Run till you cannot see an end in sight
Cuz your time isn't over, you've got a life to kill
So look up in my direction and say that you will...

I watch you in silence from my sparkle in the sky

Visit Bonn Smith page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.
