She walked up to the room hoping everything was ok
But the sound of all the screams is making her sanity fade
Not a clue of what is wrong but he's been in there all day
He just ran up to his room and slammed the door in her face

She said "please tell me why are you screaming all the time
What is the reason that my baby boy is torn up inside?"

And he said, "mamma, she's really gone.
She left a note that she had wrote that said she finally moved on There's gotta be someone that can take my pain away
Is there any hope if so let me know how I can make it through the day
'cause all of my thoughts have dipped to depression and all of my dreams have vanished away"
