Remember when I'd pick you up at midnight.
You'd sneak outside to see me again.
We'd drive away following the headlights.
We'd park the car for hours on end.
I miss all the good times, walking the thin lines.
You'd be there to catch me when I'm falling.
I wish I could take back every mistake that I made with
you.
So now I'm calling and writing to you, I miss the things you do.
I'm falling and facing the truth, the more I think of
you
It's too late now cause you've left town, I'm not
over you.
Come back now, I promise I'll stay for you.
Remember when you'd stay awake to call me.
We'd talk all night beginning to end.
I won't forget our every conversation.
The hours flew by but I'll never regret it.
I miss all the good times, walking the thin lines.
You'd be there to catch me when I'm falling.
I wish I could take back every mistake that I made with
you.
So now I'm calling and writing to you, I miss the
things you do.
I'm falling and facing the truth, the more I think of
you
It's too late now cause you've left town, I'm not
over you.
Come back now, I promise I'll stay for you.
So now I'm calling and writing to you.
Oh yeah, I'm falling and facing the truth.
So now I'm calling and writing to you, I miss the
things you do.
I'm falling and facing the truth, the more I think of
It's too late now cause you've left town, I'm not
over you.
Come back now, I promise I'll stay for you.
