I'm searching for a reason
Of why your standing here
I can't seem to break away
Cause you always seem so near
You talk about the same old things
They're running through my mind
But the pain of faded memories
Keep taking up my time

I said these things that need to change
But you can't rearrange
My thoughts that lie within my head
You never listened to what I said
Because

These are the words of broken heart
And these are the things that remain unseen
You'll never know how much they will mean
When you gone
These are the words of broken heart
And these are the dreams that remain unseen
You'll never know how much they will mean
When you gone
When you gone
These are the words of a broken heart

These are things make me wanna to leave you
I think we're through
You always seem to place the blame
With you its just a one way train

I said these things that need to change
But you can't rearrange
My thoughts that lie within my head
You never listened to what I said
Because

These are the words of broken heart
And these are the things that remain unseen
You'll never know how much they will mean
When you gone
These are the words of broken heart

And these are the dreams that remain unseen
Youâ€™ll never know how much they will mean
When you gone
When you gone
These are the words of a broken heart

This heartâ€™s no longer yours to hold
For you to take, twist, & mold
Youâ€™re such a falling star you see
I think Iâ€™ll change my destiny
You never saw the real me
So go away, just go away, go away & just leave me

These are the words of broken heart
And these are the things that remain unseen
Youâ€™ll never know how much they will mean
When you gone
These are the words of broken heart
And these are the dreams that remain unseen
Youâ€™ll never know how much they will mean
When you gone
When you gone
When you gone
When you gone
When you gone
When you gone
These are the words of a broken heart
