I wish I never had been born
Can I climb back inside you
Where it's dark and it's warm
Mother Earth it's a stillbirth sorry

You say you're tired resources expired
Weight of the world's on your mind
You say you never been fond of her weather
And yet your grapes grow on her vine
You think you are one of a kind
But you can't turn back time

I wish I never had been born
Can I climb back inside you
Where it's dark and it's warm
Mother Earth it's a stillbirth sorry

Drink in the water reflecting her daughter
Barefoot and pregnant with child
Her sons were hungry and ravaged a country
And then the nation was bled dry
These children suckled mamma dry
And for her soul I cry

I wish I never had been born
Can I climb back inside you
Where it's dark and it's warm
Mother Earth it's a stillbirth sorry

I'm so sorry but she's gone
I did all that i could do for you

I wish I never had been born
Can I climb back inside you
Where it's dark and it's warm
Mother Earth

I wish I never had been born
Can I climb back inside you
Where it's dark and it's warm
Mother Earth it's a stillbirth sorry
