Daylight seemed like it's never gonna fade
We wasted time away
Expecting paradise to stay
Good vibes were still in town
We passed the beers around
We waged a war on every frown
To fill the world with bliss
Thought we would never miss
That perfectly meaningless kiss
What meaning has this?

Days, they get shorter every week
Nights get colder as we sleep
We're missing time but not a beat
But things are changing still
Got no more time to kill
It seems we've had our fill

Now that there is no more light
Look up into the night
You might see a satellite
You might think it's worth a try
And my friend so did I
But that's when I realized
Some things just pass us by!

Oooh this situation's looking grim
Peanut Butter's spreading thin
We're searching but missing something
But still our hope maintains
A secret hiding place
To welcome back the day

Now that there is no more light
Look up into the night
You might see a satellite
You might think it's worth a try
And my friend so did I
But that's when I realized
Some things just pass us by!

Daylight seemed like it's never gonna fade

We wasted time away
Expecting paradise to stay
Good vibes were still in town
We passed the beers around
We waged a war!

Now that there is no more light
Look up into the night
You might see a satellite
You might think it's worth a try
And my friend so did I
But that's when I realized
Some things have passed...

The day has turned to night!
Good night!
