This is the anthem of the day we took flight and now I'm staring up at these dreams from the sidewalk Nothing will hold me down, like I'm 19 again with utter perfection.

And I still see this one bedroom, third floor apartment and some how your scent still bounces right off this rooftop.

These were the lyrics to the nights we had nothing to lose and everything to gain no moment unseen just you and me.

We went out for one last memory, our hopes so high and with all our might now we'll write this final chapter that will last forever tonight.

All the start explode in the sky when you hold my hand, I won't ever, let's never look back and that's a fact if you want I can be your fucking John Cusack We can stay up all night watching the same old movies over and over again, they will never get old as long as in the end I still have you to hold.

This life is no longer one size fits all, it's everything you want to be it's everything you want to believe.
So sit down and drink up we're at the point where, we're all fed up, we're all fed up.

Now we move three years forward with no regrets and nothing left unsaid as our hearts beat in sync, we'll gain momentum with every step we take.

This is our chance to reclaim everything that they try to take away but it's just not worth it, the suns gonna rise again
The sun will rise again!

And I won't forget all of those nights spent under all those city lights And I won't forget all of those nights spent under all those city lights.

This life is not longer one size fits all, it's everything you want to be it's everything you want to believe.

So sit down and drink us we're at the point where, we're all fed up, we're all fed up
This life is no longer one size fits all, its everything you wanna be, its everything you wanna believe. So sit down and drink up were at the point where we're all fed up, we're all fed up
