There was a time, when everything i said just didn't rhyme, with the voices in my head and it took some time, just clearing out my mind, but it felt divine, when i finally took the time to think it over,

and all this time i tried so hard,
i should have known right from the start,

that you'd be messing with my head leave me sleepless in my bed, and since our worlds have grown appart,
i should have known right from the start,
that you'd be messing, messing, messing with my head and with my heart, oh your'e messing with my head and with my heart, there was a time, when everything we said just didn't rhyme, with the stories from our bed and it took some time, to get you out of my head but it felt divine, when i finally took the time to think it

cause all this time i tried so hard,
i should have known right from the start,

leave me sleepless in my bed,
and since our worlds have grown appart,
i should have known right from the start,
that you'd be messing, messing,
messing with my head and with my heart,
oh your'e messing with my head and with my heart, you'll be messing with my head

leave me sleepless in my bed,
and since our worlds have grown appart,
i should have known right from the start,
that you'd be messing, messing,
messing with my head and with my heart,
oh your'e messing with my head and with my heart,

you keep on messing, messing, messing
you keep on messing, messing, messing with my head and with my heart
