

Nouvelle Vague

"Two People In A Room"

Visit "Two People In A Room" on MotoLyrics.com

I put my feelings in a spoon, try to carry them to the moon.
Spill my love these tears from above, the wound cut down to the bone.
Leave me, leave me all alone, 'cause her knife was too sharp.
Her knife was too sharp, then I met you, you took away my blues
But I don't wanna fall in love with you
'Cause one day, one day, I sing the same sad song for you.

Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.
You're all I need tonight, at least we've got a start.
Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.

I look at you, you look back at me.
I can see you're lonesome, just like me.
And here they come, these waves of fear.
One day, one day, I sing the same sad song for you.
One day, one day, I sing the same sad song for you.

Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.
You're all I need tonight, at least we've got a start.
Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.
Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.
You're all I need tonight, at least we've got a start.
Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.

One day, one day, I sing the same sad song for you.

Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.
You're all I need tonight, at least we've got a start.
Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.
Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.
You're all I need tonight, at least we've got a start.
Two people in a room, two pieces of my heart.

