

Cole Powell "Lost"

Visit "Lost" on MotoLyrics.com

Don't want to; don't have to
I'm sick and tired of pretending I like you
You think you're so much better
But in reality, I know it doesn't matter, no

~Cause you are so mistaken
There's nothing wrong with the road I'm taking
So go your way, and I'll go mine
And maybe, one day, I'll meet you on the other side, yeah

You don't know me, so don't judge me
I don't need it, and I've been thinking lately
It's time you understood where we stand now
It shouldn't really be too hard for you to figure out

You don't seem to understand the pain
And you don't seem to understand the way things have changed
I'm not lost yet, So don't find me
And even if I were, You're not the one to save me

Tell me, are you
Tired of living all your lies
And coming up with alibis
Could be you haven't noticed
But it's been a while since you and I
Had anything to talk about
Do I have to spell it out
For you to understand me
There's nothing else to say

Don't want it; don't need it
Yeah, we've changed, but not the way you see it Don't understand the pain; don't understand the cost
And you don't know, but I'm not lost yet
No, I'm not lost yet

Visit Cole Powell page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

