I've got a head like a brick,
A heart that's too quick to love.
Oh I'm terribly sick,
And baby, you're my drug.
I hear the clock as it ticks,
Lost track of time and shrug.
Maybe our fates are fixed,
You fit me like a glove. Yeah.

I could spend forever in your arms.
Looking in your eyes.
Smiling way too much, Ooh I could die.

I'm happy here with you.
There is no place I'd rather be,
When you're softly kissing me.
There's no reason to worry.
I've never felt so complete.
Here with you.

I need a job that pays six,
Figures not just two.
Maybe then I could get,
Nice things for me and you.
I swear that I'll sing,
Until my lungs turn blue.
Hoping people will buy my cd off iTunes.

I could spend forever in your arms.
Looking in your eyes.
Smiling way too much, Ooh I could die.

I'm happy here with you.
There is no place I'd rather be,
When you're softly kissing me.
There's no reason to worry.
I've never felt so complete.
Here with you.
