Is this a mutiny?
Why does it feel like you're turning against me?
Well here's a simple thought,
So you can keep up with me.
If your actions speak louder than words,
Well, my words, hit harder than yours.

You jump ship when you say you're on board,
You'd rather turn away than ride out the storm.
When the waves get rough, and times get tough,
My best efforts are never enough, for you.

Is this reality?
Why does it seem,
When I turn around,
You're hangin' out,
With someone new?
Well, If your actions speak louder than words,
then my words, hit harder than yours.

You jump ship when you say you're on board,
You'd rather turn away than ride out the storm.
When the waves get rough, and times get tough,
My best efforts are never enough, for you.
