Steady as the second hand ticking on the clock up on my wall

Solid as the floor beneath my feet

Every time I think about the way You always catch me when I fall

I'm reminded of the man I'm supposed to be

Tired of being a dead man walking

Now it's time to just break free

I can run, I can hide, but I can never escape Your love Because You live, I'm alive, set my mind on the things above

I know I don't belong to anyone, no I don't belong to anyone but You

Shadow of a dark cloud hanging over every step I took

Every single day an uphill climb

That's the way it always goes when you're seldom living for the things you should

Now don't you wanna leave that all behind

And when I finally hear You talking to me

You're reminding me

Tired of being a dead man walking

Now it's time to just break free
