You see, I believe
It was the look in your eyes
That makes me feel so alive
Like I don't want to die
When you walked through that door
I came to see, we live for times like these
When lungs are empty

Our reason for living isn't just to breathe
We live for the moments that take our breath away

And when you walked through that door
I swear to God, my tongue hit the floor
And I seemed to not be hurting anymore
Pretty lady, just tell me what's your secret
Explain to me how it's my heart
But I want you to keep it

Our reason for living isn't just to breathe
We live for the moments that take our breath away

And I... am fine... with not being able to breathe
Because I'd replace oxygen with your beauty
And every time... I see you looking so pretty
I'm fine... with lungs being empty

Our reason for living isn't just to breathe
We live for the moments that take our breath away
