Stay awake
Don't move a muscle or you will surely fall behind
Your mistakes
They want to tear you apart
I want to give you something you can use to make it out of here alive
Something real
Yeah, we've always walked outside the lines
And now you're wearing down
You only hear what brings you down

And all these voices in my head
They play over and over again
Another day they got the best of me
I always let them
And all these voices in my head
They play over and over again
Another day they got the best of me
When will it end?

Your escapes
They only bury the guilt you keep so deep inside of you
You hide your face from everyone cause you can't see what's past you in the mirror
You will always lie awake at night until you face the lies
That live inside your mind
If you only saw you through my eyes,
This would be over

And all these voices in my head
They play over and over again
Another day they got the best of me
I always let them
And all these voices in my head
They play over and over again
Another day they got the best of me
When will it end?

And I'm not listening
Because I'm breaking from this cell
But I'm still questioning all the things you've said

All these voices in my head
They play over and over again
Another day they got the best of me
I always let them
And all these voices in my head
They play over and over again
Another day they got the best of me
When will it end?
