I look back and see a vast array of change, the years aren't always kind But tattoo ink and photographs remind the places change but we all stay the same Or become old fucking wives tales. Look back and you will see Brace your arms across your chest
Of memories lost and left unclear, the kind of things that you would die for Then someone saves the day, bleed the sorrow. Look Back, And You Will See Brace your arms across your chest, break your arms across your lies.
When you feel like falling and you've failed another day
All your memories just fade to grey.
All the time that wasn't taken, all the words we didn't say.
Wish we could start over from that day.
When you feed upon me, try to erase my past. Well I feel it fade and fall at last When you feed upon me, I see through your eyes. Time keeps on moving forward and I look around Fight back against yourself, don't let the memories fade. Time keeps on moving forward Try not to turn your back, fight back against yourself.
Don't let the memories fade Time keeps on moving forward, don't turn your back on the memories
Cause I see through your eyes, yeah through your eyes again, I'm right here.
What the fuck is this all that we stand for, standing only with love and regret.
What the fuck is this all that we stand for as I reach out.
No more tainted lies, yeah, no more close your eyes.
Don't even look around alright only look out I'll take your breath away
When you feel like falling and you've failed another
All your memories just fade to grey.
All the time that wasn't taken, all the words we didn't say.

Wish we could start over from that day.
When you feed upon me, try to erase my past. Well IÂ'll feel it, youÂ'll fade and fall at last When you feed upon me, I see through your eyes. Now youÂ're gonna fucking die Break your arms across your lies.
