Walking in circles from the center, never thinking twice
One day I'll ask you if there's confidence in my stride
For unknown reasons I have needed this to stay alive
One day you'll show me that I try too hard to survive
Since the beginning I've been open to some good advice
It's hard to tell the difference, so hard to tell the difference

One day I'll wake up
One day I'll wake up
And where our time was bound to end
Our lives will just begin

I'll say it slow just so you know that I
I'm on your side, the side you chose to fight
I heard the sound that brought you down and out
It fell between a broken line somehow
This loss cancelled love entirely
It won't be long, not for you to see

One day I'll wake up
One day I'll wake up
And where our time was bound to end
Our lives begin
And it's enough for us to gather speed
It's just enough enough for me

Walking in circles from the center, never thinking twice
One day I'll ask you if there's confidence in my stride
For unknown reasons I have needed this to stay alive
It's hard to tell the difference

One day I'll wake up
One day I'll wake up
And where our time was bound to end
Our lives begin
It's not enough for us to gather speed
It's not enough, never for me
