It's a mild relief, the distance
From the soul to a pure infinity
Something less of a past condition
Something more than a dream

Effect this mood with abandon
Split it right from the seam
Nod your head as you walk away
Knowing you're never the same

Oh my god, should've guessed
This interest takes its root from the center of gravity
To the east from the west, I've shifted
But the journey is long in front of me
Who are you to explain it, this interest?
It will only confuse you

Now that we've come to an understanding
Not that we both agree
The beast that smiles upon your face will turn
As it once turned from me

Don't stop at the ocean
Don't stop at the sea
Don't let your imagination
Hold you from capturing yourself a dream

Effect this mood with abandon
Split it right from the seam
And nod your head as you walk away
Knowing you're never the same

Don't stop at the ocean
Don't stop at the sea
Don't let your imagination
Hold you from a dream
