Hollow man
It's a shame how easily you fold
Match descriptions, and fit inside their mold
Can you be content bent, and forget
Knowing that you were meant to grow

These masks
Cover how you feel
Behind violence you hide
Allowing the fake to become real

Hide too long and you may forget
That there is life beating in your chest
Born to build yet so quick you tear
How did thinking for yourself
Become so rare
Time to start thinking for yourself think for yourself
We can replace
Our fathers mistakes
Don't let history repeat itself

So I'll rise and arise on my own, you wont see me till I reach that horizon
Each step I take, every choice I make, reminds me that we decide our fate
Weight of the world, will push us down,
We invite it and thrive under the pressure
Invite it and thrive under the pressure
We are thriving under the pressure
