Troubled times may come again
They couldn't make us quit back then And lies may paralyze but I have found the chance to move

Like trees of leaves on autumn days I manifest a different fate Eyes from here and far away wont watch me drown in seas of hate

Words that lack weight can't hold me down
When storms come I still stick around Disregard what is in our way
As others stall I keep the pace
Don't lose your way
But if you fall
I will rise with you

Away from hate I could create Troubled times don't break my conscious state Steeper paths lie ahead an yet there's worth in every step of the way
As others stall I keep the pace

But I'm still moving on and no weight you place can slow me down
No lies or disguise could replicate the friends I've found
And We move on and no weight you place can slow us down no lies or disguise could replicate the friends that we've found

Despite the trend don't lose your light Thieves would drag you off into the night Traps are set to make you quit press ahead don't fall for it

Keep that mindset until the end Stick close but don't depend Walls will fall but I'll stand through it all
And I would lay down for my friends

I keep my pace with you
