I used to love you, I used to think you were cool, its weird how then we went out, then you ditched me there and then. And know you know how people change and things go different. And now you know this song is all about you.

But now it feels like my heart has been shattered into tiny pieces or broken in half and nothing can fix not even the sound of your voice. And now you know this song is all about you. It feels like my heart has been shattered into tiny pieces or broken in half and nothing can fix it not even the sound of your voice. And now you know this song is all about you.

When I look at you, all I see is your face, I used to look up to the stars and it would remind me of you. All I could see was beautiful, but now it's totally changed. I all I could see was beautiful. And now you know this song is all about you.

But now it feels like my heart has been shattered into tiny pieces or broken in half and nothing can fix not even the sound of your voice. And now you know this song is all about you. It feels like my heart has been shattered into tiny pieces or broken in half and nothing can fix it not even the sound of your voice. And now you know this song is all about you.

When I hear your voice. It's like listening to an angel. Im not sure why. But your voice gets me every time, for some reason. But I think that I love you. And when im singing about you its like describing an angel. And now you know this song is all about you.

But now it feels like my heart has been shattered into tiny pieces or broken in half and nothing can fix not even the sound of your voice. And now you know this song is all about you. It feels like my heart has been shattered into tiny pieces or broken in half and nothing can fix it not even the sound of your voice. And now you know this song is all about you.

I told you things would change, and now you know why this song is all about you.
