

Emily Duncan

"Alexis' Song"

Visit "Alexis' Song" on MotoLyrics.com

In the blink of an eye
The sun sets and rises
Beyond all we know
to another horizon
and you were so young at the gates of your dreams but they were taken away and ripped at the seams
where are you now?
do you hear as i speak
and i fret and i worry
about silly things
growing up in a hurry
one day ago you were here living like me
taking things day to day being young wild and free
Where are you now?

Now you're somewhere beautiful
and now you're some place safe
and you're watching the ones that you love
and you're guiding us on our way though your journey had just begun
remember dear
only the good die young

can you see all you've touched with the reach of your smile you've made a new world for just a short while do you see all you've done in just a few years?
You've made love and hope to help us get through the tears
Where are you now?

Now you're somewhere beautiful
and now you're some place safe
and you're watching the ones that you love
and you're guiding us on our way
though your journey had just begun

remember dear
only the good die young
only the good die young

i wish i could see the look on his face as he opens his gates to you and god's newest angel is beauty and grace with a heart that always beat true And though you're above here we'll never forget
the girl in our classes
being our friend
forever young
you'll stay in our hearts
a memory away
never truly apart
until we meet again

stay somewhere beautiful and you'll stay somewhere safe as you're watching the ones that you love and guide us on our way and though your journey had just begun remember my dear

that now you're somewhere beautiful
and now you're some place safe
and you're watching the ones that you love
and you're guiding us on our way
and though your journey here had just begun remember Alexis,
only the good die young

Visit Emily Duncan page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.